Our campus is buildings . . .

brought to life

through students whose faces are a reflection of . . .

communication . . .

Thoughts.
Inspirations and aspirations . . .
Ideas and feelings . . .
Conceived and growing within us . . .
Seeking to be shared . . .
Verbalizing expression in a word . . .
Speaking silently through a smile a touch . . . an action . . .

contemplation . . .

The mind is the essence of the being . . . In its depths lies the source of dreams and fantasies . . . anxieties, frustrations . . . needs and desires . . . yet the visible countenance is an inadequate mirror of the invisible . . . one can only surmise the content of these pensive moods.

education . . .

Reading . . . writing . . . calculus . . . digesting . . . memorizing . . . experimenting . . . textbooks of knowledge . . . pages of facts and figures . . . notebooks compiled with lectures and doodles . . . myriads of experiences . . . our purpose - to learn . . .

participation . . .

Each day holds a wealth of opportunities for enrichment . . . behind the classroom door . . . in dormitories and student-gathering places . . . within the surrounding community . . . from snowball fights to civil rights . . . only, we must take the initiative . . . open our eyes . . . make a step and dare to get involved.

appreciation

Brevard College is our new home . . . where we evolve and mature as individuals . . . and as a corporate entity . . . mailboxes . . . house symbols of unbroken former ties . . . but our world is here now . . . whether fertile or fallow . . . a mountain environment in its natural beauty . . . to be loved . . . upheld . . . and molded . . . by those who care.

Those unforgettable first weeks

Registration. A new year opens as lines of anxious faces, moved by tired feet, shuffle and re-shuffle in the confusion. Forms completed, schedule in hand, a stream of students flows from the auditorium ready to begin a new year.

Picnics. Grass beneath our feet, warm sun shining overhead, trees towering around us, and new friends to share them with. We laughed and had such fun - remember when the boys tied a rope high in a tree one bright afternoon . . . The days settled softly into routine. Our first fire drill caught us unawares. We rushed outside and stood together under the stars in our raincoats - sleepy-eyed and with rollers in our hair. The long days grew slowly shorter and summer faded.

Homecoming '68

The rich green of living things around us fades and turns to warm shades of yellow, orange, brown, as nature's cycle is led by autumn's hand. Alumni, unseen friends, return to us, reliving the haunting memories of past semesters in a brief but unforgettable weekend. Homecoming. Amid the laughter, an infectious aura of excitement hovers over the field. It moves the gathered crowd to audible enthusiasm for the soccer and track teams, who press and strain for victory. Escorted members of the court appear before their peers with reluctant smiles and fragrant flowers. A new queen, denoted with a kiss, is honored with the sound of applause - a hint of the coming events of the evening.

Under the brightly colored streamers that fell from the ceiling unambitious ones were clustered around tables watching special smiles illuminated in the candlelight. They were building a world of sights and sounds and sensations from the abundant supply of stimuli. Suddenly music stopped, movement escalated beside the narrow trail of red carpet which led to a throne. Down this path came radiant young women in long dresses, one of whom took her crown and rightful seat as Queen of the festivities. She held her red roses - the dream came true.

Special speakers challenge students

Throughout the year, special programs are presented for our interest, and for those who become involved, are rewarding and enriching. In the fall, a banquet climaxed the dedication of our new A. G. Myers Dining Hall. Later, several students traveled to the nation's capital to participate in the United States Student Press Association conference. Again on the campus level, we had the opportunity to hear and to speak directly and personally with guest speaker Dr. Wayne Womer, concerning the problem of drinking, with Dr. Samuel Levering, who led the United Nations Day observance, and with Rabbi Arnold Task, the Jewish Chautuaqua representative. During the spring, Paul Anderson, the world's strongest man, appeared in chapel, representing the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. His testimony was inspiring; a group of enthusiastic young men established a Brevard College Chapter of the organization.

Lyceum expand educational program

Lyceum is an added dimension to our educational program. Professional artists offer their talents for our entertainment and enrichment. By popular demand, the Preservation Hall Jazz Band returned for its second consecutive performance, coming from New Orleans to give us another evening of their inspiring, foot-tapping original jazz sound. Conveying a different mood, Father lan Mitchell and his wife, Caroline, presented a folk concert, featuring contemporary songs performed in their own individual style. We listened intently, captured by two harmonious voices and a long guitar.

Christmas Queen, Melanie Beasley.

The coming of Christmas

The ground, once covered with leaves, is bare. December is our month now; and as we walk from class to class, we breathe the crisp air of the Christmas season. Climaxing campus festivities is a dance given in the yuletide spirit. Winter formals of rich velvet and satin glide about the room. The holiday mood of the evening is highlighted as the Queen and her court are presented amidst smiles, sighs, and applause. Crepe paper snowmen stood nearby, watching the evening in silence.

January days slip away and are overtaken by February. The fourteenth day of the new month is traditionally special for sweethearts. Students honor the message of St. Valentine's Day with a sweetheart dance. Through swirling flakes and over a snowy path, we walk to Dunham. The lobby is decorated with wet umbrellas, coats and boots, while inside paper roses and hearts communicate the feeling of the occasion.

Representive students chosen by each class

Ken Eaton, Mr. Freshman; Jeanette Land, Miss Freshman.

Four outstanding students are chosen annually and designated Mr. and Miss Freshman and Mr. and Miss Sophomore. These young men and women are leaders - active in many phases of campus life. Friendly, concerned, and hardworking - they devote much of their time and energy to the college in the interest of other students. Self-sacrifice is often called for in fulfilling certain responsibilities; for these reasons we have selected them to represent their respective classes.

Did you notice the buds on the trees by the lily pond? Doesn't it seem warmer now? Robins, the early flowers, patches of new green grass - hints of another season, when the earth slowly wakens from her long winter sleep. Spring is alive. Here we celebrate with our last major dance in honor of Spring. The evening is a reflection of the feeling. Girls in soft dresses of pinks and yellows and blues dance under decorations that imitate the new awakening. In such a lovely atmosphere spring queen and her court are presented.

Terri Venable, Freshman attendant.

Members of the Council participated in Convocation.

Plans for womens' gymnasium are reviewed by Mr. Hardin and architect Henry McDonald.

Mr. Hardin, chairman, takes a moment to relax.

In the summer of 1968, a Council was appointed by the Board of Trustees to assume the duties of the president until another had been appointed. E. Wannamaker Hardin was named chairman and others serving were Leighton W. Martin, W. Louis Miles, C. Edward Roy and Grady H. Whicker. Two important committees were established by the Council. Consisting of an equal number of students and faculty, they were the Attendance and Penalties Committee and the Committee on Social Behavior. Such action has permitted the two groups to work more closely together on current issues - an effective step toward better student government.

New dean heads administration

From Old Dominion College in Norfolk, Virginia came Grady H. Whicker who became Dean of the College on July 1. Having a varied background in teaching, administration and counseling, he is no stranger to the college scene. These qualifications, however, do not reveal the man as the unique personality he is. His genuine concern for student welfare is evidenced by his active involvement in campus affairs. Greeting everyone with a smile, he eagerly shares his sparkling wit and sense of humor. We are very fortunate that he considers people a "necessity in his life," and he devotes himself unselfishly to all our needs. In fact, we consider Dean Whicker a necessity and an asset to our administration.

Beanies are donned by Deans Burgess and Whicker, signifying their "freshman" year also.

Dean Roberts reflects the relaxed coffee break atmosphere.

Business manager, Mr. Hardin, has a full schedule.

Defining the role of the college is a responsibility of Mr. Bowles, Public Relations Director.

Her job as dean of women has its lighter moments for Miss Burgess.

Personal concern and friendly interest are shown by Chaplain Roy.

Additions to the faculty numbered eleven members in five divisions to bring the total to fifty-seven as Brevard College began its 35th year of operation. The student enrollment for the 1968 fall semester numbered 645. The resulting student-teacher ratio of eleven to one allowed an instructor to give counseling and personal attention to the needs of each individual. Our academic atmosphere is human rather than statistical — perhaps the most welcomed and most respected asset that the college has to offer.

Cultural stimuli were offered by the Division of Fine Arts for students, faculty and Brevard residents during the week of November 9 -17. The Festival of Contemporary Arts included events that successfully appealed to varied tastes..

Opening night the award-winning film, "The Seventh Seal" was presented, a product of the renowned Swedish director, Ingmar Bergman. Father Ian Mitchell and his wife, Caroline, were featured in a delightful concert of folk, liturgical and pop music. An art show and gallery talk was given by Timothy Murray, member of the college art faculty and well-known artist, who informally discussed modern art and current fads.

A studious atmosphere.

Robert often frequents the library.

To Brevard College students, James Addison Jones Library is an invaluable storehouse of information. Since the last academic year, approximately fifteen hundred books have been added to the facilities. The library is kept functioning in the students' best interest by a busy staff of four librarians and several student assistants. One innovation this year is a bulletin board feature entitled "Current and Controversial." This display makes informative material in diverse areas of modern thought readily available for student reading. The library . . . small but growing stronger.

A year of growth and change is revealed in the externals as one views the Brevard College campus. The new and modern A. G. Myers Dining Hall provides two serving lines — a great time-saver. The orange water fountains, completed this year, enhance the beauty and character of the campus. Located in front of Beam Administration Building, these fountains were a gift to the college from David Ginsburg as a memorial to Earl Clontz. Presently under construction is the McLarty-Goodson Classroom Building which is scheduled for use in the fall of 1969. It will replace the present Classroom Building and complete the educational-administrative quadrangle

A grant of $643,800 to the Brevard College Building Fund from trustee Cary C. Boshamer will be used to enlarge present Physical Education facilities and to pay the pledge which enabled the commencing of work on the new classroom building.

Actively involving themselves in present construction are Dean Whicker and Chaplain Roy.

Freshmen class led by Ken Eaton, Donna Mills, Carol Boruch, Karen Nicholaides.

On Thursday, August 29, 1968, we unloaded our belongings at our new home in Brevard. After a hearty welcome and smiles from Big Sisters, other student leaders replaced the suitcases in our hands with informational manuals. A wave of orientation overtook us. The formalities of placement tests, adviser meetings, various assemblies and an impressive Convocation service were relieved by free time; and recreation reached its climax in a computerized dance.

Then on Tuesday morning, with minds and bodies rested from an exhaustive day of registration confusion, we faced our first day of classes. In the beginning we stood out from the others, with blue and white beanies identifying each of us. We observed the sophomores, awed surviviors of biology labs, term papers, exams, and the difficult freshman year of adjustment and growth. Slowly the friendly atmosphere arising from a small campus began working its magic on us. Circles of friendship begun through initiation, assemblies, club activities and homecoming later widened to include faculty, administration and the person beside us in class. Viewing the scenic parkway in its autumn splendor, making snowmen and snowballs on front campus after an early snow, and swimming in the heated pool in January have also left their impressions upon us.

Kenny carries his responsibility as a true leader

Karen undertakes her obligation with a smile.

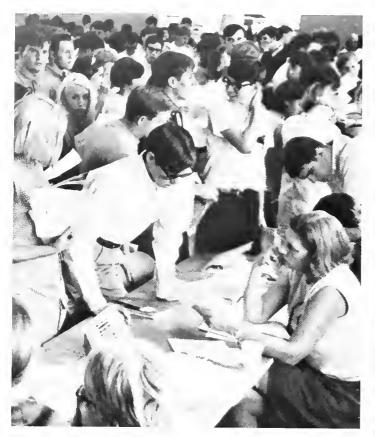

We returned from Christmas vacation, confident in our familiarity with college life, with plans already crystallized for our sponsorship of the spring dance.

And now as the end of an unforgettable year draws near, we are much aware of the unity of which we are a part. We stand united in school spirit, to cheer our track team to another victory and to join in singing our college hymn or meeting friends at "Partners".

We realize that we are identified — more than the number of our assigned chapel seat or our mail box. We are initiated, full-time members of Brevard College. The class of 1970 is ready!

The ever present meal ticket, though hattered and torn.

'69 Class led by woman president

The graduating class of 1969 has become a part of the tradition that is Brevard College. The many facets of a new environment — life in Beam, Jones, Taylor or Green, classes in Religion and Health, Lyceums — all have transformed many doubting freshmen into hopeful sophomores. We look with hope and anxiety to what lies beyond Zen Dens and chapel, majestic Pisgah mountains and the age-worn steps of the Classroom Building.

The class of '69 is unique. We are a part of a year of change. For the first time in eleven years a woman, Gail Robertson, was chosen to lead the class. Rule changes were met with mixed emotions. Later closing hours were a blessing to sophomores____ who remember facing locked doors at 10:30 on a Friday night. Some changes, however, stirred a cry for student rights that echoed throughout the campus. We dined in a new cafeteria, passing the undergoing construction of the new classroom building, and constantly forgetting our meal cards, not previously required.

The light of the good times and the bad — homecoming and midterms, basketball games and finals — is a shadow of the past.

S.G.A. relinquishes judicial function

Incorporating the entire student body, the Student Government Association, with its elected representatives, relinquished its judicial function this year, thus fulfilling its purpose of continued student government in a strictly legislative capacity. Delegated responsibilities ranged from checking chapel attendance to planning activities for Homecoming and supervising general campus elections. They continued to sponsor a Korean orphan and extended their financial aid to include the Greenville Boys' Home and the Biafra Relief Fund.

Jones Hall stands serenely behind its poster costume.

Women's house councils govern dorm regulations

Womens' House Councils are organized primarily to serve in a disciplinary capacity in their respective dormitories. These pretty policewomen, armed with referral slips, also sponsored two open houses and two dorm parties, proving that proctors do have warm hearts. As a service to the community, they participated in the clothing drive sponsored by Brevard Jaycees for the Christmas House. For their contribution, Beam received a monetary award, which they returned to help the project.

Men's House Councils, meeting weekly, act as the judiciary boards for dormitory infractions, such as the inevitable shaving cream fight. Open houses were held several times throughout the year under their sponsorship, with refreshments being served to all visitors. During Homecoming Festivities each dorm competed for the $50 prize given for the best decoration. Taylor Dorm proudly won first place. Later in the semester, the men celebrated the Christmas season through dormitory parties given by their respective house mothers.

Euterps give Halloween Party

Euterps extended their activities this year beyond those of initiation bedlam and sponsoring of the Christmas dance. As a service to sleepyheads, unable to make Saturday morning breakfast, they sold fresh doughnuts room to room. One of the year's highlights was a Halloween Party, given for the children of working mothers under the direction of the new club sponsor, Christina E. Bowles. Held at the Mary Jenkins Center, it enabled the participating members to draw nearer to the community in which they live.

Sherry Keeter brought special distinction to the group by representing her country as a member of the United States Square Dance Team at the Mexico City Olympics.

Traditional mud-slingers, Clios literally threw themselves and screaming pledges into initiation festivities. They joined their sister society in planning for the Christmas dance and elected Melanie Beasley their queen.

Snowflakes and roses for a Valentine Dance

Prospective members of the Mnemosynean Society were entertained during the fall with a tea and a pool-side party given by their Nemo "mamas." Only however, after an unforgettable day of fun, games, and much mud and eggs, were the girls considered to be fully initiated. Working closely with the Nemos throughout initiation calamities and festivities was their brother society, the Delphians - a very determined group who once again reigned victorious over the field day event. Together the two societies planned and executed a most successful Valentine Sweetheart Dance. Couples walked hand in hand through a blanket of snow to enter an auditorium dressed with hundreds of roses and hearts. A lovely evening!

Marshals usher at special events

Anyone seen with a long, Brevard blue and white satin streamer attached to the left lapel is undoubtedly a marshal. The ribbon was given to him in recognition of outstanding scholastic achievement and he deserves to wear it proudly. The marshals chosen this year served as ushers for the 1968 spring commencement exercises and for convocation, lyceums, and other special occasions throughout the school year.

Members in the top ten per cent of their class, a "B" average, and faculty approval are the necessary qualifications for induction into Brevard's chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, the national junior college scholastic honor fraternity. Directed this year by a new sponsor, Mrs. Beard, the club compiled and sold student directories as its annual money-making project. The members voted Crossnore School their service project, collecting clothing, stamps, coupons and other needed articles for the institution and donating a scholarship for a worthy student.

A coke party given in February provided refreshments and fun for midterm honor roll and Dean's List students, while a formal induction service was held in the spring.

Members of Alpha Beta Gamma, the national chemistry fraternity for junior colleges, are selected on the basis of leadership and scholarship abilities. This year they sponsored the film "After the Sputniks" as informative entertainment for the student body. The annual career night program, featuring guests from various scientific fields and vocations, was a successful event, highlighting the year's activities.

Dress is an expression of one's individuality. Just look at this!

Making plans for club meetings is the responsibility of President Emily Galloway and adviser Mr. Tauscher.

Big Sisters aid in freshmen orientation

Big Sisters share a large part of the responsibility for orientation of incoming freshmen women. Arriving on campus a few days early at the beginning of the fall semester, they planned a hearty reception for new students and later guided the lost and confused ones through the first hectic weeks. In the spring they held an action sale as a moneyraising project, selling items such as pop tests from the faculty and contributions from the members. Big Sisters is an honorary organization - sometime hard work, but always fun.

Realizing their essential role in campus life, the Day Students, under the capable leadership of advisers Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Alderman, formulated their own constitution this year and held open house in their new lounge in Dunham. With much determination and hard work the club participated actively in Homecoming festivities and intramurals. Funds to keep the members functioning as an organization are increased each time a drink is purchased from the coke machine in the Student Center.

Meeting the third Monday each month, the Spanish-American Club, advised by Mr. and Mrs. Perez, attempts to introduce Spanish culture to students currently taking the language. This is accomplished through pertinent guest speakers and programs given by the students themselves.

All women majoring in business are invited to join the Business Club which functions under the guidance of Mrs. Grace Munro. After giving a tea in the fall for prospective members, the organization invited several guest speakers each month from the business world to discuss their respective occupations with the group.

SNEA tutoring rewarding

The Student National Education Association is an organization geared to those who are preparing for the teaching profession. After having a get-acquainted dinner for new members in September, the club held meetings bi-weekly. Their community project was a continuance of the BEST tutoring program at Brevard Elementary School, better preparing the students involved for their role in the field of education. SNEA sent 5 delegates to the NCEA convention in Charlotte March 21 and 22.

A lighter moment in group discussion.

Lighting of the Christmas tree - an inspirational tradition.

Presidents of the various denominational groups form the Christian Council. Advised by Chaplain Roy, the organization planned and executed an active program. In the spirit of the respective seasons, they effectively decorated the cafeteria for Thanksgiving Dinner, and sponsored the traditional Christmas Tree Lighting and the sunrise service at Camp Greenville.

The main function of the Council was the promotion of the Tenth Plyler Religious Emphasis Week. Held March 9 - 13, the series featured the Reverend Robert Terry Young, pastor of the Boone United Methodist Church, who spoke on the theme "You Can Exist - Or You Can Live," emphasizing the individual's responsibility for the continuation of the living church. The series opened on Sunday evening with an impressive service that utilized contemporary folk music as the medium for communication. After the daily services, the minister held personal consultations and met with students in each dormitory for informal discussions. Speaking on the student level, Mr. Young raised pertinent questions and formulated new friendships during his stay on the Brevard campus.

Individual attention stimulated new friendships.

Promoting Christian fellowship among college students is the primary aim of the Methodist Student Movement. Through weekly meetings, the club offers a variety of programs in its effort to understand current problems. In February they attended the annual MSM retreat at Appalachian State University. There, with students from other colleges and universities, throughout the state, they probed the questions of poverty and racism under the retreat theme of "The Campus and Yesterday's People."

In addition to business, discussion and fun meetings, the members of the Baptist Student Union were able to attend the state convention. Seven students traveled to Asheville in November for five seminars concerning the problems of Christian living and national and world affairs. On the lighter side of the convention, they were entertained with dramatic readings of Carl Sandburg's poems. Because of the trip's success, the group reported a large turn-out for the spring convention held in Gastonia.

Kappa Chi fraternity members are students who plan to enter some area of full-time Christian service. Guest speakers from various vocational fields speak to the group to offer information and guidance. The primary project of the club is Casa Materna, the only Methodist Children's Home in Italy. Each year since 1955, when Mr. Roy, sponsor, visited the home, the fraternity has made a contribution.

Denominational groups sponsor lectures

Glee Club tours New York

Under the direction of Nelson Adams, the Glee Club meets twice each week. The result of many hours of practice was climaxed by their singing tour to New York during spring vacation. The group performed in New York City and New Jersey as well as in Washington. On campus, the Glee Club was heard in a special choral program in the fall and again during spring graduation exercises.

Madrigals give local and out-of-town performances

An afternoon rehearsal - "remember, practice makes perfect!"

Selected on the basis of vocal auditions, sixteen members were chosen to comprise the Madrigals this year. Their repertory, which included excerpts from Don Quixote, was performed locally and on tour. The singers traveled to schools and churches throughout the state, including Albemarle, Statesville and Hickory.

Cheerleaders promote true school spirit

With the Tornadoes and the opposition in the background, the cheerleaders go to work with enthusiasm.

'Let's go, Brevard1'

Meditation relieves tension during a court battle.

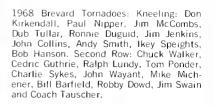

Spirit and enthusiasm were the key words with the cheerleaders, spurred by the direction of Miss Gail Anderson. The fall bonfires, the mid-winter court stands of the Tornadoes, and promotion of "Brevard is Best" highlighted the valuable work of a true team. Captain Jackie Tyler and Co-captain Linda Smith led the squad to celebrate a victory or take defeat humbly. Roaring echoes from crowds, buildings plastered with posters, a 1-2-3, Let's Go — BC cheerleaders were on the scene.

losses and 1 tie was spurred on by many outstanding players. Mike Michner set a new high of 13 goals and 9 assists. Cedric Guthrie scoring 8, Jim McCombs 7, and Don Kirkendall tallying 6, paved the way for a total 44 goals during the season, an average of 4 goals per game. Brevard's biggest margin win was seen this year in their defeat of Montreat - Anderson 9 - 1. Brevard's victory over Clemson 7 - 6, marked the most goals by Brevard in a single game. Ten of eleven goals were scored in a half against Tusculum to set another record this season. The freshmen, to quote Coach Tauscher, "should provide a good background for a solid team next year." 1968 SOCCER SCHEDULE

Roadrunners finish sixth in Nation

Boasting only seven runners, the Brevard College Harriers finished a tremendous season with a conference and regional win and a sixth place finish in the national championships.

Coached by a young but determined Norm Witek, the Harriers captured the first four places in all the regular meets, twice gaining all five. The biggest victory was a 18 - 40 sting to the University of Tennessee frosh.

Sparked and paced constantly by the incredible Bob Gray, national champion and record holder, the team shared national recognition as it continued to gain momentum. With only seven men, much momentum had to be gained to carry the Harriers throughout the season. Jim Fussell, Jimmy Thames, Don Jones, Willie Davidson, Sammy Autry and Mike Poole provided the needed push as the BC runners gained respect in racing paths throughout the Southeast and the nation.

Small but mighty is an appropriate slogan for the BC Harriers.

Chief ball handler and court organizer for the Tornadoes was Groves, here getting around an Anderson College adversary.

Kagel attempts a long one against strong contender, Gardner - Webb.

Tornadoes exhibit exciting season

Mike Martin, team manager, looks on with his solemn form of excitement.

"Not the best ever, but certainly one of the most exciting," well defines the basketball season for the Brevard Tornadoes, 1968-69 edition. Larry Burch, a former Tornado standout, joined the coaching staff and assisted Coach Martin.

Taking victories for the first four outings, "Chick" Martin's crew developed problems for a few games. Gary Cross, freshman sensation of the year before, was not hitting and it was felt that "so goes Cross, so goes the Tornadoes." But this expression was not heard for long as freshmen Joe Kagel and Greg Headen began to blossom. After the Christmas break, Cross was up to par with that incomparable jump shot. Sophomores Clayton, Faulk, and Groves followed suit. The Tornadoes were rapidly gaining ground.

The Tornadoes reached personal satisfaction as they, on January 25, unperched the so-called untouchable team of Gardner - Webb. But with the big win under their belts, the Tornadoes apparently lost sight of the threats of other conference teams and began to fall prey. The WCJCC Tournament at Forest City ended with BC in fourth place.

"About that call ... "

Despite an injured hand, Faulk prepares to lob in for two points.

"Here she comes!"

But excitement was the key word throughout the season. On November 21, Coach Martin was handed his 200th victory with a cliff-hanging 68 - 67 win over Gainesville College. Greg Headen jumped out in front in scoring and stayed there February 20 with a tremendous effort of 40 points against Gardner - Webb, three short of a BC record. Headen did establish one record, however, as he became the all-time freshman scorer. In the tournament action, Headen was cited as All-Tournament and Kagel received the Sportsmanship Award. Headen was also named All - Conference. Coach Martin received one of the highest honors of his career when he was named Conference Coach of the Year.

Next year? Experience and power will definitely find the Tornadoes. Kagel, Headen, Hunt, Lockey, Putnam, Galloway, and Vacendak should carry the load well. With a couple of recruits, Coach Martin's crew may go all the way!

Coach Martin attempts to solve some problems during a time-out.

The pep band was invaluable, performing at all home games and helping to keep the Tornadoes in high spirits.

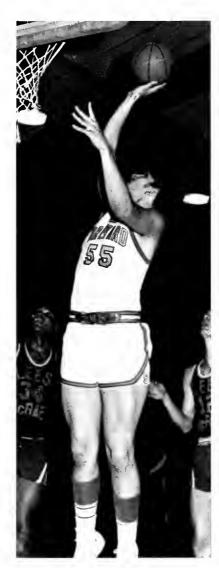

Tornadoes publicity man and radio broadcaster, "the star of our show," Joe Bowles, Public Relations Director.

"Bones" Clayton bounds high for a layup against Lees - McRae.

"Okay, men, let's talk about it!"

Big Tom Vacendak bounds high to toss one in before two obviously "non-violent" Lees-McRae men

The coveted Sportsmanship Trophy was awarded to Joe Kagel at the WCJCC Tournament.

Cross drives for a layup against a persistent North Greenville foe.

Causing big trouble for Gardner - Webb's Gilmore was Greg Headen.

In recognition of his 200th win as Tornado Coach, L. W. "Chick" Martin is presented a plaque by E. W. Hardin and Dean Grady Whicker.

The stretched form of Tom Bingley paid off well in early season.

Getting in shape is an "upcoming activity" for Sandy Olson.

Morton, springing high in the broad jump, transferred talents early in the season to the javelin.

Gray, Lanier, Olson and Fussell go through their paces.

New to coaching, Norm Witek soon found a home with the BC Roadrunners.

Thinclads in contention for national championship

Recognized as one of the top junior college teams in the nation, the Brevard College track team fell to defeat only once in 1968. It came at the hands of powerful University of Tennessee "B" team. Brevard captured first place in the junior college division at the Furman Relays and a fifth place finish at the Florida Relays.

Led by the talents of Roger Jones, Dave Fussell, Ned Jones, Drew Baron, Tommy Jordan and freshmen Bob Gray, Larry Thompson, Wayne Morton, Don Kirkendall, Ed Holder, Mike Scurto, Ronnie Vance, Jimmy Thames and Mike Poole, eight new school records were established in addition to four new conference records.

Track is hard work . .

And much pain

Success . . .

With pre-season practice under their belts, the 1969 edition of the Roadrunners boasted a faster squad than that of the previous year. The speed of freshmen Greg Bowen, Tom Bingley, and Willie Davidson received a hearty welcome. Distance men Larry Lanier, Sandy Olson and Jim Fussell were destined to uphold the high standards of the team. Weight man Forrest Broom and high jumper Charlie Hunt, along with jumper Ed Johnson, were also valuable additions.

Returnees Holder, Gray, Morton, Poole, Kirkendall and Thames appeared in the best shape ever and with an eye on the national championship. Gaining depth in the events and improvement in performance held the answer.

And still more pain.

Frosh provide backbone for tennis team

Paced by sophomore Richard Marvin, the 1968 tennis team got off to a slow start and never regained the power possessed the year before.

However, 1969 began as possibly "the year" for the BC team. Tommy Andrews, the only returning letterman, was joined by several promising freshmen and two sophomores.

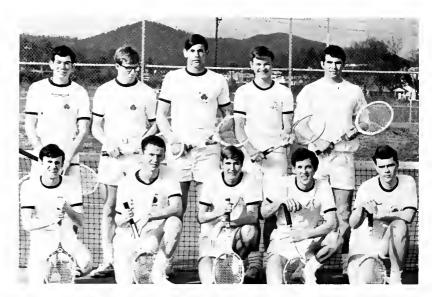

To get more power for the return Ed Watson leans into the ball.

Golfers show improvement and experience

"Experience" was the key word with the '69 golf team, as five of the seven golfers returned who had played on the strong 1968 team.

Under the coaching of Mr. Bowles and Mr. Murray, they appeared strong in early season play on the local beautiful Glen Cannon course.

1968 GOLF SCHEDULE

Golf can be a lot of exercise as illustrated by Bill Barker and Robert Clayton.

Tornadoes provide rough competition

Rebuilding in 1967 brought an added punch of teampower and determination to the 1968 version of the baseball team. Under the coaching of Danny Bost, former BC baseball standout, the Tornadoes finished the season with one of those records that fails to show the true success of the team.

With the fall practice, under the coaching of Larry Burch the Tornadoes appeared more able to carry the load of a tough 1969 schedule than teams in the past several years. Returnees Sutherland, Dollyhigh, Smith, Clayton, Whitaker and Broome, along with freshmen McDonald, Morris and Lundy, should provide the power and the depth for one of the better seasons in BC history.

Sutherland uncorks one of his speeding curves.

The bench during the Tornadoes' bat displays much attention to home plate.

Clayton provides the reach at first base.

The role as one of the most valuable positions on the team is assumed by Swaney.

A little flick of the wrist is all it takes!

1968 BASEBALL SCHEDULE

New W. R. A. program directed by Miss Anderson

The Womens' Recreation Association received a new name and a new emphasis under the direction of Miss Gail Anderson. The program, formerly the Women's Athletic Association, was revamped to provide a better variety of sports activity for the co-eds. As a result, athletics from badminton and table tennis to field hockey and basketball were provided. The W. R. A. basketball team engaged in intercollegiate play for the third year and boasted a fine record with much participation. Co-eds find that W. R. A. provides substantially for the need "to get away from it all."

When it comes to snagging passes Lee is another "Jimmy Orr."

Set Go!

Sutherland casts a cautious eye downfield on a roll-out play.

Many records were established at the Intramural Swim Meet, which also involved co-eds.

With a year-round program of sports from the gridiron to the track, the Mens' Intramural activities took on new aspects with the direction of Coach Larry Burch. Teams were composed of men from each dorm floor as well as day students. The program provided the needed break from study and encouraged team spirit and competition. The Day Students and Green Basement were in constant contest for individual sport titles and the over-all championship.

Pertelote Staff / 1969

Chaucer's Nonne Preestes Tale is the source from which the Brevard College yearbook derived its name. Pertelote was the wise hen most admired by the gallant Chanticleer. The book has been published annually since 1935.

I still find it hard to believe. We've just closed the cover of the 1969 Pertelote - the final page in place. Last night was the last sleepless night we will have because of the yearbook. As I took the final pages to Mrs. Roy, I began to reminisce over the past few months. They have been hectic, but quite enjoyable, you know. I don't even know how to act now that I have no pictures in my room, waiting to be sorted for this file or that.

Much hard work has gone into compiling this yearbook, and many notes of appreciation must be mentioned. First of all, I thank Mrs. Roy, who has stayed with me until the "bitter" end. Even though I must admit that sometimes I felt like hiding because I dreaded the work that needed to be done, she remained patient and yet stalwart enough to help me see the task completed. I also want to thank the entire staff for the many hours they have spent in preparing this book for publication. One cannot appreciate the true values of a yearbook without having spent those long and late hours on it. Although we have had our misunderstandings, still somehow we have managed to complete it.

Most of all, I thank you, the student of Brevard College. You are the '69 Pertelote, Your life at Brevard is reflected here. As these pages flip past, I sincerely hope that you will see yourself hidden in their depths — your confusion and understanding, your desires and goals, your joys and sorrows, your love, your hate, your every emotion. May this book be a true mirror of YOU, for, as you know — a man is only the sum of all his memories.
